

Aja Barber, MS

Community Health Administrator | Center for Health Equity

Aja Barber is originally from Texas but moved to Louisville in 2016. She received her B.A. in Political Science and M.S. in Youth Development from Texas A&M University. While in graduate school, she studied the relationship between institutional racism and trauma, the structural impact of racism on psychology curriculum, and how activism addresses community healing. Aja has a specialized passion for facilitating the understanding that the conditions we live in are created and we can build something different by transforming our structures and institutions in ways that work for all of us.
