

ELIZABETH HOLTSCRAW, MA

Cancer Control Strategic Partnerships Manager | American Cancer Society

Elizabeth Holtsclaw, MA, has been with the American Cancer Society for 7 years. Her current role at ACS is as Cancer Control Strategic Partnerships Manager, with the goal of promoting positive health outcomes in Kentucky through state health systems and as an advocate for cancer screening and prevention. She earned her master's degree in Social Service Administration from the University of Chicago. Ms. Holtsclaw has been working in the oncology field for over 20 years and has broad experience working in clinical research and community settings.