

Cheyenne Robinson

Enabling Service Program Manager | White House Clinics

Cheyenne has been the Enabling Services Program Manager with White House Clinics since March 2021. She completed her BSN at The University of Kentucky in 2013 and her MPH in 2018, with a concentration in Health Education and Promotion. The majority of Cheyenne's professional nursing experience is with children with special healthcare needs, but after completing her Master degree, she worked as a Risk Reduction Specialist in a local syringe services program. In this program, she provided HIV and HCV prevention education, overdose prevention and response, and other harm reduction health education.
